

July 31, 1901 – CHESTER TIMES

MEDIA FREE LIBRARY TO OPEN TOMORROW – About Seven Hundred Books and More to Come – Everything is in Readiness

The Media Free Library will be formally opened to the public on Thursday evening this week. The librarian, Miss Johns, has been busy for some time cataloguing the books and getting things in shape to open, and everything will be in apple pie order on Thursday evening.

The library contains about 700 books already and this number will be increased by at least 100 by the time winter weather comes. The ladies and gentlemen of the borough who have devoted their time and money to establishing this library trust that the people will take an interest in it. The library is something that the borough has needed for a long time, and if the public gives it the proper support, all the new books will be found there, and many a pleasant and profitable evening can be spent. The room is in the borough hall, one of the most central places in the borough.

Keith Lockhart Collection