CHESTER.

DESCRIPTION AND GENERAL DETAILS.

Chester, the oldest town in the State, being settled about the year 1645, by the Swedes, by whom it was named Upland, the Indian name being Mecopo-nack-a, is situated on the right bank of the Delaware river, fifteen miles by water and fourteen miles by rail south of the city of Philadelphia. The name of Upland was retained until the arrival of William Penn, which occurred on Sunday, October 29, 1682, when he, at the request of his friend Pierson, called it Chester, after a town in his native country—England. It was constituted a corporate town as early as 1690, but its growth was very slow, however, as it did not attain the dignity of a city until 1866, when an Act was passed by the Legislature incorporating it February 14th, since which time it has increased with rapid and steady strides in population, manufactures and other points that make a city widely known. Chester was the seat of the Court for the territory now known as Delaware and Chester counties until 1786, when the records were transferred to West Chester. In September, 1789, Chester county was divided, and Chester made the county seat of Delaware, the first Court being held February 9, 1790. The natural advantages of the city are unequalled by any, the land lying so as to secure good drainage, and the broad Delaware, whose channel is sufficiently deep to float the largest ship, lying at its foot, by means of which intercourse can be had with every part of the world. Three railroads, and soon there will be another, making four, either pass through or have their terminus within its limits; the Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore road connecting it with New York and Washington; the Chester & Delaware River, a branch of the Reading railroad, connecting it with the coal and iron fields in the interior of the State, and the Chester Creek road, which has a rich agricultural and manufacturing district for its outlet. The Baltimore & Philadelphia railroad, now being built on Twelfth street, will afford additional facilities for rapid transit between New York, Philadelphia and the South, and it will be an important adjunct to our already excellent system of passenger and freight transportation. It is thought the new road will be in operation by July, 1886. The remarkable growth in population and importance of our city is due to its varied industries, although surrounded by an agricultural country. Chester is essentially a manufacturing city, and her establishments find a mart for their products in every port of the civilized world. Upwards of thirty-five cotton and woolen mills, Roach's extensive iron shipyard, the Tidewater Oil Company's Works, the Eddystone Print Works, Sharpless' Logwood Works, the large machine shops of Robert Wetherill & Co., where so many Corliss engines are built, three or four other important machine shops, the Chester Edge Tool Works, the Rolling Mills, Steel Works, Blast Furnace, the Combination Iron and Steel establishment, Chester Cast Steel Company, Eureka Cast Steel Company, Standard Steel Castings Company, carriage works and many other industries in and around Chester, give it not only a national but an international reputation, and furnish employment to thousands of mechanics. Indeed, no place in the State has enjoyed a more prosperous decade than this city. It is surrounded by the thriving boroughs of South Chester, Upland and North Chester, and the village of Eddystone, whose citizens make it their trading centre. The Chester Street Railway Company was organized in 1882, and began running their cars early in 1883, thus connecting the city more closely with surrounding boroughs, and making it easier of access for the citizens of those places.

EXTANT.—The city extends from the boroughs of Upland and North Chester on the north, to the Delaware River on the south, and from Ridley Creek on the east, to Lamokin Run on the west, and contains three wards, the North, Middle and South, with an area of 1100 acres.

POPULATION.—In 1702 it "was a bare place, without a fort, but there were some houses built there." In 1808 "one hundred houses," or say 500 population. In 1820, 657. In 1830, 848. In 1840, 1,000. In 1850, 1,667. In 1859, at the time the first directory was published, 4,107. In 1870, 9,485. In 1880, 14,996. In 1885, 17,000.

GAS AND WATER.

Gas was introduced into Chester in 1856. Previous to 1859 wells and pumps supplied the public with water. During that year an artesian well was sunk by Mr. Samuel Eccles, to supply water for his manufactory.

THE SOUTH WARD WATER WORKS are located at the foot of Fulton street, on the Delaware river. The Board of Directors is composed of the members of City Council from that ward. President, Dr. R. P. Mercer; Secretary, D. M. Johnson, Esq.; Treasurer, Amos Gartside; Superintendent, Robert Anderson. The price of water is $10 per hydrant, per annum.

NEW CHESTER WATER COMPANY, chartered April 29, 1885, for the purpose of furnishing Chester and surrounding boroughs with water from Ridley and Chester creeks. President, Dr. J. L. Forwood; Secretary, W. Harry Miller; Treasurer, Richard Peters, Jr.; Superintendent, John Dutton; Solicitor, Wm. Ward. This is not yet in operation, but surveys are being made with a view of carrying out the provisions of the charter.

THE CHESTER GAS COMPANY, incorporated April, 1856, have their works on Welsh street, below Third. President, Treasurer and Superintendent, Jonathan R. Johnson; Secretary, J. Howard Roop.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

The Mayor is elected every three years, the last election being held February, 1884, the Mayor taking his seat on the first Monday in April following.

The City Council is composed of fifteen members, five from each ward, elected every three years. Meets first and third Mondays in each month, at the City Hall.

Mayor, J. L. Forwood, M. D.

City Treasurer, Wm. P. Ladomus, (elected every two years).

City Recorder, J. Newton Shanafelt, Esq., (elected every five years).

Auditors, J. M. Peoples, George Healey and T. D. Nelling.

PROSPECTUS
OF A
Mutually Advantageous Joint Stock Company, Entitled
GOULD'S UNION FURNITURE MANUFACTURING AND HOUSE FURNISHING CO.,
OF PHILADELPHIA.

N. E. Corner Ninth and Market Streets.

You are invited to become interested in an original and entirely new enterprise, which will prove advantageous and profitable, without incurring any risk or possibility of loss. The above named organization was conceived and originated in 1883, although the business has been in successful operation by Gould & Co. as an individual investment for the last thirty years, during that time having been eminently prosperous. Unlike other proposals to form joint stock companies, where there is no substantial collateral to show, in this plan there is full value to commence with, a thoroughly established business and large assets, together with an income secured from the day the investment or allotment of certificates is made, as six per cent. per annum will be paid in cash on shares from date of purchase, which payment is guaranteed by $900,000 worth of Real Estate, Merchandise, and other Assets belonging to the business. This six per cent. interest will continue to be paid semi-annually until the company is formally organized and officers elected. After that time each shareholder will be entitled to dividends arising from the profits of the business, which are estimated from past earnings and are expected in the near future to advance from six to twenty per cent., according as the business progresses and enlarges, when these shares will be worth many times their present price. The certificates are now offered at a price within the reach of everybody, namely, One Dollar. It being desirable to have many interested, who, by their co-operation and influence, continually help to make more business, and so increase the amount of profits and gains. Shareholders have the privilege to continue, being satisfied with this interest of six per cent., or else receive the dividends made from profits of the business of the Company. The Shares, when issued, will at any time, if so desired, be received in payment (for their full face value) for merchandise, consisting of Furniture, Carpets, etc. Other branches of trade from time to time being added. It is evident in the proposal there is not a possibility of risk or loss.

The Shares are full paid, and not assessable. The Assets of the Company will consist of the following: Real Estate situated N. E. corner of Ninth and Market Streets, 37 and 39 North Second Street, and 305 to 311 South Second Street, an immense stock of merchandise, in Furniture, Bedding, Carpets and House-furnishing Goods; also, Fixtures, valuable Patents, Horses, Wagons, large Stables, Good Will, Machinery.

Buildings for Storage, Rents receivable, Material of all kinds, belonging to the business, and 100,000 Shares of Capital Stock of the Company. (Engravings of part of the Real Estate are displayed in this Circular, which are some of the most valuable blocks of property in Philadelphia.) Estimated value in the aggregate $900,000, represented in 900,000 Shares, at one dollar per Share, par value. All this property to be transferred to the Company, clear of Incumbrances and debts, soon as chartered, or when 300,000 Shares are disposed of, the whole being paid for in Stock of the Company. To illustrate this new departure: A party buying 500 Certificates for Shares to-day, would receive six per cent. Interest per annum in cash, paid semi-annually, or every six months following until the Company is fully organized, which interest becomes perpetual, or in lieu may receive the dividends made by the profits of the Company. Not less than five nor more than five thousand Shares will be sold to any one subscriber, on the principal that the more distributed, the larger the gains and dividends. Co-operation is the one grand secret of successful business in the Nineteenth Century. The Company will buy and sell entirely for cash, consequently can make no losses. Even as an investment guaranteeing six per cent., leaving out the question of the probable large dividend, this is a "saving institution" of the greatest advantage to the public, and is the only organization ever established that has offered these inducements and advantages, at the same time positive security.

Interest is now due and being paid on Certificates issued in 1883.

HISTOGRAPHY

Books of Subscription are now open at either of Gould & Co.'s offices, corner Ninth and Market Streets, 37 and 39 North Second Street, and 305 to 311 South Second Street.

Of the mutual advantages and success of the above system the New York Evening Post in its issue of October 27th, 1883, says: Co-operative establishments in London are making 61 per cent., and the market value of its shares advanced from $5 to 27.50, and their customers obtain their purchases at from 15 to 25 per cent. less than regular retail prices. The Ledger of March 19th, 1884, states that a Co-operative Society in France has not only supplied its members with articles at 10 per cent. below Paris prices, but also returned to its share-holders a dividend of 24 per cent.

305 to 311 South Second Street.

CO-OPERATION IN ENGLAND.

A View of the Rise and Growth of the System.

A London letter to the New York Evening Post, says: In marked contrast to the dismal history of co-operative store-keeping in America has been the success of the same attempt in England. Here, although for many years its advance was slow, it now makes its influence felt in almost every department of commercial activity. It is thirty-nine years since the pioneer co-operative society was formed at Rochdale by the combination of a handful of poorly-paid artisans, who proposed to save what they could by buying in quantity and distributing at cost. If there was any profit, which the most sanguine hardly expected, it was to be divided among them in proportion to the amount which each man bought, so that it was really nothing more than a device for eliminating the profits of the middleman from the cost of articles of consumption. In 1844, the year of its foundation, it had a membership of twenty-eight and a capital of £140. Its first year's business was £3,650, on which there was a profit of £110. Its membership is now nearly 10,000, its business over £1,500,000, and its profits $300,000 yearly. From the first its success was assured. The scheme speedily found imitators and extenders, and at the close of 1881, there was in Great Britain 1,189 retail distributive societies in successful operation. These societies had 673,000 members, a share capital of £28,739,535, and a loan capital of £7,480,715. Their sales in that year amounted to $101,528,010.

A question of great importance and interest is the amount of saving effected over ordinary retail stores. But this is a matter which it is exceedingly difficult to get at. I have heard it variously estimated at from fifteen per cent. to twenty-five per cent. Their price-lists are easily to be obtained, and will furnish the specialist an idea of the reduction in his own particular line. But it manifestly would not do to assume that the reduction is the same on all lines of goods, or even approximately equal. I think, however, it would be safe to say that it is not less than ten per cent. Assuming this to be correct, it will be seen that the saving to the patrons of co-operative societies in the cost of goods bought in 1881, was over $10,000,000. Yet with this enormous saving the net profits of the business amounted to $9,747,670, nearly ten per cent. on the sales and 26.9 per cent. on the capital employed. The above statement, it will be noticed, does not at all include the wholesale and manufacturing co-operative institutions, which are by no means few or insignificant, but with regard to which I have not been able to secure reliable statistics.

Since co-operation started in the humble manner which I have described, it has, as was to be expected, undergone some modifications and numerous extensions. It arose from the necessities of the poor, and it was for many years recognized as distinctively a poor man's institution. But neither rich nor poor really like to waste money, and as every year's experience increases the evidence of the advantages of co-operation, it enlisted every year the support of larger and larger numbers of the upper classes, so that now a very good place to see footmen in livery and carriages with coronets is at the door of some one of London's great co-operative stores. In short, co-operation has become quite the proper thing, and at some of the stores, as I shall show further on, the custom is kept very select.

EXTENSION OF THE PRINCIPLE.

A further change in the plan of co-operation was soon caused by its continued success. When it became evident that the plan was not only theoretically correct, but practically feasible, and that its promoters were both obtaining cheap goods and making a good profit on their invested capital, the number of those who wished to share in these benefits rapidly increased. Among them were many who had no capital to invest in shares, or who would be able to patronize the store for only a limited length of time. Now, as the store, in spite of its reduced prices, made a profit on everything it sold, it was for the advantage of the shareholders to permit these people to trade with them, especially as they were willing to pay bonus for the privilege. Accordingly this was done under some restrictions by the greater number of co-operative stores, especially in large cities; and where done the number of these "subscribers," as they are generally called, who own no shares and have no voice in the control of the affairs of the Company, soon came to be much greater than the number of the shareholders, and they furnished the great bulk of the profits. But it would be entirely unjust to divide these profits from outsiders according to the original plan of giving to each man an amount proportionate to his purchases, for his purchases had nothing to do with his profit, which arose entirely independent of them. It must be divided as in any joint-stock company, in proportion to the number of shares held; and this principle was soon applied to the entire profit.

Thus, by the natural course of events, the original purpose of co-operation, which was simply the extinction of the middleman's profit, has been lost sight of, and the co-operative store has become simply a limited joint-stock company, which buys and sells for cash only, and gives to any one (under certain restrictions and limitations) who is willing to pay cash the reduction in price which a cash system permits. I should not be understood as saying that this is the case with all co-operative stores. No doubt many, possibly most, of the smaller stores scattered through the rural districts, still retain the original plan more or less modified. There every patron is still a shareholder, and shares in the profits in proportion to his purchases. In such cases, however, a great part of the profits is ordinarily devoted to objects of common interest, such as the formation of night, technical, art, and common schools, the establishment of libraries, reading-rooms, art galleries, parks, etc. No doubt much good has been done in this way, and many a shilling which would otherwise have been wasted has been put where its influence will be felt by other generations.

THE GREAT STORES.

London has a great number of these co-operative stores, of all degrees of importance, and with all classes of patrons. They are nearly all, I believe, run on the modified co-operative plan which I have described. Among them are the two largest and most aristocratic stores of this kind in Great Britain, the Army and Navy Co-operative Society and the Civil-Service Supply Association. Of the former, which is, I suppose, the most extensive co-operative store in the world, I will give you a short description.

It occupies an immense four-story block of buildings in Victoria street, in one of the most fashionable quarters of the town, where in an interminable maze of apartments, are kept almost every article ever offered for sale. There are, however, some things which the store does not keep. But it publishes a list of tradesmen who will furnish them to its patrons at from ten to twenty per cent. discount for cash. So that practically it keeps everything. Its price list, which I have before me, is a bulky volume of 1302 pages handsomely printed, and elegantly illustrated, and they print of this about 60,000 copies twice a year, and a monthly circular giving any changes in prices that may have occurred. To attend to their vast trade, they employ 3,500 men and 200 women. From the eleventh annual balance-sheets I gather the following facts with regard to the business of the Association for the year ending January 31, 1883:—

The share capital of the Association is $300,000 only, in shares of $5 each, though its actual invested capital is very much greater, arising from deferred interest payments and the invested deposits of a savings bank, which is one of its features, and in which it pays four per cent. interest to depositors. Its receipts during the year were $10,772,108, and its net profits $202,606, or 61 per cent. of its share capital. We are not, therefore, surprised to hear that the market value of its $5 shares is $27.50. With prudence for which great corporations are famous, a modest dividend of five per cent. only is declared, and the rest of the surplus is devoted to watering the stock, under the name "deferred bonus." There have been four such waterings of fifty per cent. each, so that the stock has been virtually trebled. The number of shareholders is 16,035, and the number of shares held by any one person is limited to 500. Only officers of the army and navy are eligible to become shareholders, but persons introduced by them and approved of by the Board of Directors may become "subscribers"—that is, be allowed to purchase goods. Of these there are no less than 26,839—not quite twice the number of shareholders. They have no share in the profits, and pay $1.25 the first year and sixty-two cents a year thereafter for the privilege of trading.

It should be mentioned that the Association has lately extended its enterprise to manufacturing for itself many of the articles which it sells. Last year it made the following articles to the value of $744,870:—Guns, traps, portmanteaus, tin goods of all kinds, fancy woolen goods, printed goods, stamped goods, shirts, perfumery, and watches. It is managed by very wide-awake business men, and is constantly extending the sphere of its usefulness. Its success is almost phenomenal, yet its officers declare that it is simply the legitimate result of a large business done without credit.

SOUTH CHESTER BOROUGH.

History, Industries and Advantages.

In 1871 South Chester was incorporated into a borough, and since then its advancement has been rapid, no borough in the State equaling its increase in population in the decade closing with 1880. It has a population of about 5000. Within the limits are six or seven woolen and cotton mills, a rolling mill, a blast furnace, a pipe and tube mill, large steel works, a brass foundry, oilcloth factory, kerosine refinery and raffine works, several extensive brickyards, and numerous other industrial establishments, which make it a busy hive. The borough has the advantage of a good river front, and two railroads run through it, connecting it with all the domestic and foreign ports.

BOROUGH GOVERNMENT.

The government is vested in a Council to make the laws, and a Burgess to execute them. The Burgess is elected by the people every three years, and presides over the deliberations of, and votes with Council. The Council consists of six members, who are elected for three years, two each year. The following are the officers of the borough:

Chief Burgess—John Law.

Council—Thomas A. McDowell, John R. Nowland, Casper H. Snyder, William J. Brown, C. B. Houston, Hubert J. Riley.

Clerk of Council—G. O. Yarnall.

Treasurer—Z. T. Bartleson.

Solicitor—George B. Lindsay, Esq.

Surveyor—C. H. Lodomus.

Building Inspector—George D. Hewes.

Police Officers—Wm. G. Glendenning, Robert Doak, C. B. Dunlap, Isaac Lewis, James Tinch.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The public school system of the borough is excellent, the board being a judicious one, and always alive to the interests of the pupils and taxpayers. The board consists of six members, elected every three years, and is as follows:

President—Benjamin Smith.

Secretary—Z. T. Bartleson.

Treasurer—O. T. Pancoast.

Directors—Z. T. Bartleson, C. G. Neal, O. T. Pancoast, Benjamin Smith, Dr. J. B. Weston and Rev. Abel Howard.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The Fire Department consist of but one company, the Felton Fire Company, organized in 1883, and named for Mr. Samuel M. Felton, a wealthy citizen, who has always taken an active interest in the affairs of the borough. The borough is without water, but the authorities are negotiating for a supply. The company is officered as follows: President, Richard Peters, Jr.; Vice President, Hubert J. Riley; Secretary, G. O. Yarnall; Financial Secretary, John Stainton; Treasurer, Wm. J. McDowell; Chief Engineer, B. McLaughlin.

LYCEUM.

The South Chester Lyceum is an active literary organization, that meets every Monday evening in the school house at Third and Jeffrey streets. Its meetings are largely attended. Its officers are as follows: President, F. H. Seidell, M. D.; Vice President, W. A. Williams; Recording Secretary, K. V. Marshall; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Christie Gourley; Treasurer, S. P. Stevenson.

BUILDING ASSOCIATION.

The Iron Workers' Building Association has been prosperous from its start. It has done much to build up the place, and has been the means of a large number of persons getting their own homes. It is officered as follows; President, T. J. Houston; Vice President, Jeremiah Dermody; Secretary, L. A. Tucker; Treasurer, C. B. Houston.

NORTH CHESTER BOROUGH.

A Thriving Manufacturing Suburb of Chester City.

North Chester borough, incorporated in 1874, is a prosperous and rapidly growing suburb of Chester. It is divided into three sections—northern, middle and southern. The first, embracing what is known as Irvington, a thriving manufacturing district, where the Irvington Mills, operated by James Irving & Son, are located; the middle section, commonly called Shoemakerville and Oak Grove, where there is a growing settlement, and the southern section known as Powhattan, an important manufacturing place, taking its name from the mills of Shaw, Esrey & Co., located there. There first mill was built in 1868, and since then two other large mills have been built for the manufacture of jeans and doeskins. The firm is composed of Hugh Shaw, D. R. Esrey, C. S. Esrey, Wm. H. Shaw and John Shaw.

The first Burgess of North Chester, elected in 1874, was John M. Sharpless, (now deceased), but he refused to serve, and the new Borough Council, consisting of Henry L. Powell, Hugh Shaw, John Wetherill, Joseph G. Fell, James Irving and Daniel McCurdy, elected Mr. Powell as his successor.

BOROUGH OFFICERS:

Burgess—John W. Martin.

Council—Charles S. Esrey, Henry Beaumont, Edward Euckley, Anthony McMunn, Benjamin Berry and John Robinson.

Clerk of Council—Wright Sutcliffe.

Treasurer—Charles W. Andrews.

Solicitor—John B. Hannum.

Tax Collector—Nathan Sharpless.

School Directors—Henry L. Powell, John Wetherill, A. P. Garfield, George Jones, W. H. Flaville and David Aarons.

UPLAND BOROUGH.

An Old Settlement — Prosperous Manufactories.

Upland, one of the oldest settlements in the State, was incorporated into a borough in 1809. The first mills were erected in 1683, one year after the landing of William Penn, by Samuel Shaw, for the purpose of grinding grain and sawing timber. The old Pusey house, where Penn lived, is still standing along the race, and is an object of interest. The late John P. Crozer purchased the property within the limits of Upland in 1843, built a cotton mill and was very successful. There are now three large mills operated by Samuel A. Crozer & Son and Robert H., George K. and J. Lewis Crozer, giving employment to a great many hands.

GOVERNMENT.

The borough is economically governed by a Council of six members and a Chief Burgess, as follows:

Chief Burgess—L. M. Bullock, M. D.

Clerk of Council—R. H. Castle.

Treasurer—B. F. Pretty.

Councilmen—S. A. Crozer, President; John P. Crozer, G. K. Crozer, Agur Castle, B. Frank Compton and Elisha Moore.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The public schools of the borough are in excellent condition. The School Board is composed of the following persons: John McMurray, Lewis J. Smith, James A. Forsythe, Dr. Isaac Crowther, James Ross and William Dalton. Treasurer—B. F. Pretty.

MEDIA BOROUGH.

The County Seat of Delaware County.

The borough of Media enjoys the distinction of being the county seat of Delaware county, the Court House having been built there in the year 1850, and in the following year the several courts were removed there from Chester. It is situated on the Philadelphia and West Chester Railroad, and within forty minutes ride of Philadelphia. The county seat, like the boroughs of Upland and North Chester, has no hotels within its borders, and consequently furnishes but little business for the criminal court, although it has its share of distinguished lawyers.

The following are the present county officers:

Judge—Thomas J. Clayton.

Prothonotary and Clerk of Quarter Sessions, &c.—Morris P. Hannum.

Recorder of Deeds—Edward Blaine, of Chester.

Register of Wills and Clerk of the Orphans' Court—Thomas Lees, of Chester.

Sheriff—William F. Mathues, of Media.

County Treasurer—Samuel M. Challenger.

District Attorney—Jesse M. Baker, of Media.

County Commissioners—Benjamin F. Pretty, William Armstrong and Andrew Osborne.

Commissioners' Clerk—Joseph M. Rogers.

County Superintendent—A. B. Stewart.

Directors of the Poor—H. L. Donaldson, John B. McCay, Joseph Leedom.

Auditors—Wm. S. Sykes, J. Lewis Garrett, James J. Williamson.

Jury Commissioners—Charles H. N. Martel, Henry Burk.

Crier of the Court—Samuel Ottey.

Solicitor to the County Commissioners—H. C. Howard.

Prison Warden—J. Morgan Baker.

Prison Inspectors—President, George Broomall; Secretary, W. E. Williamson; Milton Lewis, John McMullin, Edward H. Hall.

Prison Physician—Francis F. Rowland.

BOROUGH OFFICERS.

The present officers of the borough are:

Burgess—Henry Green.

Town Council—President, Charles R. Williamson; Henry C. Howard, Louis Palmer, Winfield S. Worrell, Terrence Reilly, Horace P. Green.

School Directors—President, Milton Lewis; Secretary, Lewis Lewis;

CHAS E. RODGERS, DEALER IN BAKERS' MIXTURES.

SEVEN PER CENT.
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

—IN SUMS OF—

$200 AND UPWARDS.

INTEREST PAYABLE SEMI-ANNUALLY.

Principal and interest guaranteed by the Equitable Mortgage Company, of Kansas City. This Company gives the highest references from Banks, Bankers, Savings Banks and Safe Deposit Companies and leading men of the country. The New England Savings Banks are investing largely in these mortgages. These mortgages are offered for sale in Chester by the undersigned.

WESTERN MORTGAGES

ARE A FAVORITE INVESTMENT

With many Delaware County farmers and others. One who has $50,000 invested has never lost a cent in principal or interest, and has dealt in them for forty years. Another has $20,000 worth, and he relates the same story. References will be given on application.
